1. I talked to [] about when we might have the Office inputs describing the various security and sterility practices which they use in R&D contracts. Harry had originally left the input due date open, but later, at [] suggestion, asked that these be in by 1 June. Since this request was made some time ago, it might be helpful if you could urge an even earlier date, say, next Wednesday May 24, at the staff meeting tomorrow. This would give more time for thrashing out any policies that might be needed and getting appropriate instructions out.

2. Harry has a guy in the Industrial Security Branch drafting a supplement for the Project Officers Handbook that should be very helpful, but sterility practices are most pressing.
